Cross Ribbon

Purple Ribbon

Purple typically represents pancreatic cancer and epilepsy. It is also a symbol for Alzheimer's disease, lupus, animal abuse, Crohn's disease, cystic fibrosis, fibromyalgia, sarcoidosis awareness, thyroid cancer, ADD (Attention Deficit Disorder), and religious tolerance. Purple can be combined with other colors to support different causes, such as teal and purple which represents domestic violence and sexual assault. Meanwhile, lavender ribbons represent cancer for which a color has not been designated. Lavendar can also be combined with orange to represent eczema, psoriasis, and psoriatic arthritis.

Black Ribbon

Black ribbons are used as general symbols for mourning, and you may see magnetic versions raising awareness for POW/MIA as an alternative to yellow. This color is used as a sign of mourning, but also represents melanoma awareness, anti-terrorism, gun control, skin cancer, sleep disorders, and gang prevention. Black can also be combined with other colors to have different meanings. Black and gold is for platelet donations, while black and white represents Acute Disseminated Encephalomyelitis and vaccine injury.

Pink Ribbon

Pink is most commonly associated with breast cancer awareness, but it's used for more than just that. What many people don't know is that pink ribbons are also symbols for respecting birth parents and nursing parents. Hot pink is used for cleft palates, gendercide, inflammatory breast cancer, eosinophilic esophagitis, and eosinophilic disease. Pink can also be combined with other colors to represent different causes. For instance, pink and black represent the loss of a female loved one.

Red Ribbon

Red is generally used to show support for the fight against HIV/AIDS. This ribbon is also a symbol for stroke, heart disease, substance abuse, MADD, DARE, Evans Syndrome, epidermolysis bullosa, complex regional pain syndrome (formerly known as reflex sympathetic dystrophy), and vasculitis. Red can also be combined with other colors and have different meanings. For instance, black and red is used for Black Lives Matter, while red and blue represents pulmonary fibrosis and many other causes.
